HULA BOWL HISTORY

Over the past 55 years, the Hula Bowl All-Star Football Classic has proven to be one of the most exciting of all the post-season all-star games—a tradition of great players and coaches, Heisman Trophy winners, exciting football with exceptional fan and corporate support.

In just the last six years alone, the Hula Bowl has seen dynamic change—Rivals.com signed on as a title sponsor; the American Football Coaches Association formed an alliance with the Bowl; the game moved to Maui and War Memorial Coliseum after 51 years on the island of Oahu; and added a unique local flavoring to the naming of its all-star teams.

TITLE SPONSOR

In August of 1999, Rivals.com became the title sponsor of the Hula Bowl. Based in Seattle, the internet company boasts the world's largest network of sport's teams and specialty web sites, including over 350 college football sites. The deal with Rivals.com ended a five-year relationship with former title sponsor Hooters Restaurants of America.

The partnership with the AFCA and NCAA Football makes the Rivals.com Hula Bowl the top attraction for college football's elite seniors. Having Rivals.com as a sponsor also makes Maui the place to go for high school football's best. The company will announce its Rivals 100 All-America team of high school players in conjunction with the Hula Bowl and bring the players to Maui for the game.

FORMATS

The names of the teams have also changed through the years. The North and South all-stars were re-named to Hawaiian names Kai (ocean) and Aina (land) for the 2000 game, highlighting the game's Hawaiian theme.

When the inaugural Hula Bowl All-Star Football Classic was played on January 5, 1947, the teams were comprised of mainland college players pitted against a local team of graduates of Leiehua, a high school in Wahiawa. The teams would play a two-game series every January until 1951, when the format was changed to allow NFL players to join Hawaiian all-stars in an effort to create a more competitive environment.

In the 1960's the Hula Bowl changed formats again, limiting play to only collegiate athletes. With this change and the increasing popularity of college football, the Hula Bowl made its way to the top of the post-season bowl games.

In 1994 the game matched local all-stars against top collegiate players from the mainland. This format was a hit for the local community but didn't attract national attention.

In stepped Bowl Games Hawaii in 1995, and the improvements in subsequent years have again stamped the Hula Bowl game as the premier all-star event.

MOVING TO MAUI

Moving the Hula Bowl game to Maui broke the longest standing tradition of the Hula Bowl—its location. After 50 years in Honolulu, an agreement was signed in April of 1997 by Bowl Games of Hawaii and County of Maui and the game was moved to Maui and War Memorial Coliseum in a move that pumped more than $10 million in new money to the island and reinforced the tourism economy. Last year's game was played before a sellout crowd of 23,000 fans.

THE PLAYERS/GAMES

The inaugural games in 1947 were split—the mainland team winning 34-7 in game one, the Leiehua copping the second encounter, 26-20. With two great games, the Hula Bowl was an immediate hit with fans, a tradition that lasts to this day.

Ricky Williams

In 1952, the late Doak Walker, a former Heisman Trophy winner and Detroit Lions star, played in the Hula Bowl after leading the Lions to the NFL championship. College and pro football hall of Famer Otto Graham did the same in 1955 after leading the Cleveland Browns to the NFL title.

Beginning In the 1960's, the game attracted Heisman Trophy winners like Mike Garrett, Steve Owens, Jim Plunkett, Tony Dorsett, Billy Sims, Rashaan Salaam, Danny Wuerffel, Ricky Williams and Ron Dayne. In 1969, the game's first sellout crowd watched USC's Heisman Trophy winning tailback O.J. Simpson set a Hula Bowl record with an 88-yard kickoff return for a touchdown.

Kordell Sewart was the star the Most Valuable Player of the 1994 Hula Bowl game. He had a 72-yard run in leading his West team to a 20-9 victory over the East and his performance elevated Stewart to the 27th pick in the second round of the NFL draft, higher than predicted before his appearance in the game.

In the Golden Anniversary game in 1996, Winslow Oliver (later with the Carolina Panthers), was a major attraction with 88 yards rushing and two touchdowns, including a 53- yard TD romp that helped secure MVP honors.

Doak Walker, Otto Graham, Paul Hornung, Larry Csonka, John Mackey, Charles White, Johnny Rodgers, Anthony Davis and Billy Sims, to name a few, appeared for the Golden Anniversary celebration and a time capsule was buried at Aloha Stadium honoring the game's first 50 years. The capsule is to remain undisturbed until 2021.

In 1997, Mississippi State punter/kicker set a Hula Bowl record with 4 field goals (14 total points) and also punted for a Hula Bowl record 52-yard average.

In 1998 the first game in Maui' War Memorial Coliseum produced a thrilling 21-20 win by the South. Michigan running back Chris Howard ran for 116 yards on 14 carries while Maryland defensive end Eric Ogbogo recorded 4 quarterback sacks as they garnered MVP honors.

Heisman trophy winner Ricky Williams of Texas rushed for 114 yards and two touchdowns in the 1999 game, while last year's game—the first tie in Hula Bowl history—was highlighted by a record 12 receptions by Iowa's Bashir Yamini.

AFCA HISTORY

The improvement of the coaching profession and the sport of football has always been among the top priorities of the American Football Coaches Association since it was founded in 1922.

There were 43 coaches at the first informal meeting in 1921. The first formal meeting was held Dec. 27, 1921, in New York City at the Hotel Astor, and the Association officially came into being a few weeks later.

Since that time, the Association has grown to more than 8,000 members, including coaches from Germany, England, France, Canada, Australia, Japan and Russia. They share many of the same ideas as the founders—Amos Alonzo Stagg and John Heisman among them—and have been instrumental in developing the Association into the effective and highly respected organization that exists today.

Founding Fathers

Among the early leaders of the Association was Major Charles Daly of the U.S. Military Academy. Daly served as the AFCA's first president in 1922. He was the football coach at Army at that time and was instrumental in organizing the first meeting that eventually led to the founding of the AFCA.

Daly was succeeded by the legendary John Heisman as AFCA president in 1923. After serving as first vice president in 1922, Heisman served as president in both 1923 and 1924, becoming the first of only four men to lead the Association for two years. The remaining members of the AFCA's first Board of Trustees included secretary-treasurer J.W. Wilce of Ohio State University and trustees Robert Fisher of Harvard University and Fielding Yost of the University of Michigan.

Presidents

Virtually all of the great coaches in college football have actively participated in the AFCA. Past presidents have included such respected coaches as Bear Bryant, Alabama; Darrell Royal, Texas; Carmen Cozza, Yale; Eddie Robinson, Grambling; Bo Schembechler, Michigan; and Vince Dooley, Georgia. Bob Ford, University of Albany, is the 2000 AFCA President. He succeeded the 1999 president, Rocky Rees of Shippensburg University.

Executive Directors

The AFCA has had four full-time executive directors—DeOrmond "Tuss" McLaughry (1960-65); William D. "Bill" Murray (1968-81); Charles Y. McClendon (1982-93), and the current executive director, Grant Teaff.

Constitution, Code of Ethics

According to its constitution, the AFCA was formed, in part, to "maintain the highest possible standards in football and the profession of coaching football," and to "provide a forum for the discussion and study of all matters pertaining to football and coaching."

The Association sets forth strong ethical and moral codes. The AFCA has established a code of ethics that governs all aspects of coaching. A member who does not follow the code comes before the AFCA Ethics Committee, which is composed of his peers.

One of the primary reasons the Association was formed was to promote safety. An annual injury survey begun by the AFCA in the 1930s has provided valuable data and has led to a remarkable reduction of injuries in the sport through the years. The NCAA rules committee often follows recommendations made by the AFCA.

Membership

The American Football Coaches Association is considered the primary professional association for football coaches at all levels of competition. The 8,000-member organization includes more than 90 percent of head coaches at the 680-plus schools that sponsor football at the college level.

The Active I membership is composed of coaches who are affiliated with four-year institutions and is responsible for determining the policies and postures of the Association. Active II members are coaches from the professional, junior college or high school coaching ranks or those who are affiliated with schools which are not members of the NCAA or NAIA. Allied members include athletic administrators, video coordinators, strength coaches or retired coaches. Other categories are Foreign membership and Life membership, which includes honorary members, 35-year members and Amos Alonzo Stagg Award recipients.

Events and Programs

The AFCA teams with USA Today, ESPN and Sears to select and honor national football champions. The athletics department of the AFCA Coaches' Poll champion each January receives the Sears Coaches' Trophy and a $20,000 academic scholarship provided by Sears. The remaining NCAA and NAIA national champions also receive trophies from AFCA and Sears.

The flagship event of the Association is the annual AFCA Convention. Held each January, the convention gives the membership an opportunity to exchange ideas and provides a forum that has been beneficial to the sport and profession. During the convention, coaches of conference and national champions are honored, as well as coaches selected by their peers for superior coaching performances. In addition to the GTE Coach of the Year Award, which is voted on by the active members of the Association, AFCA committees select the Burger King Coaches' All-America teams in four divisions.

The Amos Alonzo Stagg Award and the Tuss McLaughry Award, two of the most prestigious awards given in college football, are sponsored by the AFCA and presented to deserving recipients during the convention. The Stagg Award is given for contributions to football, and the McLaughry Award is given for distinguished service to mankind.

The Assistant Coach of the Year Award was created by the AFCA to recognize assistant coaches who have distinguished themselves through on the field excellence and service to their communities.

The Good Works Team and Academic Achievement Awards are former CFA honors now being presented by the AFCA. The Good Works Team is a community service All-America team designed to recognize college football players for their community service work. The Academic Achievement Award is presented to the Division I-A school with the best graduation rate in collegefootball.

Also in 1997, the AFCA approved a scholarship program that gives a total of $165,000 in scholarship money that is distributed between the national championship schools in the NCAA and NAIA (five schools), and the schools of the AFCA's GTE Coach of the Year winners (four schools) and Assistant Coach of the Year Award (five schools).

AFCA Selection Committee 2001 marks the fifth year that the selection of players for the Rivals.com Hula Bowl Maui falls into the hands of the American Football Coaches Association. This year's selection committee includes: F.A. Dry - Chair, Tom Bass, Hayden Fry, George Perles, Joe Restic, Spike Dykes.
